

JUNE 2026

HUNTER INSIGHTS

Perspective

Big-Picture Data vs. Daily Reality: Economic reports often show growth, but many people still feel the pressure of high costs in their daily lives. Understanding this gap helps us make more practical decisions that reflect your actual financial needs rather than just following data trends

The Impact of Market Leadership: Markets are frequently driven by a small group of fast-growing technology companies. While these leaders often push indices higher, their success doesn't always reflect the performance of the broader economy or companies that provide everyday goods and services.

The Value of Disciplined Diversification: A well-diversified portfolio is designed to manage risk by avoiding over-exposure to any single trend or company. While this approach may lead to more "muted" results during periods of narrow market surges, it serves as a critical safeguard, offering a smoother ride and protecting your capital when market leadership inevitably shifts.

DISCLOSURES & OTHER INFORMATION

Articles posted on the Hunter Associates Insights page are provided for general educational purposes only. Hunter Associates has not independently confirmed the accuracy or completeness of the information contained in the articles. The content on the Hunter Associates Insights page should not be construed as tax, personal financial planning, or financial advice. Please consult a qualified professional about your personal situation. The information presented in this article is current as of 6/24/2026.

Investments are not FDIC-insured, they may lose value. Hunter Associates, LLC is a dually Registered Broker-Dealer, Member FINRA/SPIC, and an SEC-Registered Investment Adviser.